

SECTION 9: PROGRAMS AND PARTNERSHIP

Centre for Responsible Drinking

Issue

The Centre for Responsible Drinking is a national, independent source of information on alcohol related matters, such as drinking and driving, fetal alcohol spectrum disorder, alcohol and youth, alcohol and health and alcohol misuse.

Quick Summary

- The Centre for Responsible Drinking's aim is to encourage discussion on a variety of alcohol related matters.
- The Centre is funded by the Brewers Association of Canada and lists a number of partners, including SLEC, TIRF and others.
- The Centre hosts events such as the Alcohol & Health Symposium to foster discussion among experts and interested parties alike.

Background

The Centre for Responsible Drinking is a national, independent source of information on alcohol related matters, such as drinking and driving, fetal alcohol spectrum disorder, alcohol and youth, alcohol and health and alcohol misuse. Funded by the Brewers Association of Canada, the Centre for Responsible Drinking is committed to leading the discussion with respect to alcohol use. With the help of its partners, the Centre offers innovative initiatives and approaches to educate Canadians from all walks of life about the implications of alcohol consumption.

Its website is www.responsibledrinking.ca

Industry Discussion Points

- Brewers want Canadians to make educated choices about their alcohol consumption. As such, the BAC launched the Centre for Responsible Drinking in order to foster discussion about alcohol related matters such as alcohol and health, drinking and driving, fetal alcohol spectrum disorder, alcohol and youth and alcohol misuse.

